Berlin Startup seeks support

Leaving the garage stage we now enlarge our team. Over the last months we elaborated a complete set of Internet-services meeting all the needs of SMBs. For the testing and further development of our new product we are looking for a technically skilled, highly motivated intern and offer an internship of 3 months, beginning 1st march or 1st april 2010.

Your tasks

You will support our team in the field of technical improvement, further development and testing of our product and get an insight in all the other professional areas a product launch implies.

Your qualification

— Second year (at least) of study in Computer Engineering, Software Development, Informatics or corresponding disciplines.

— Proven experience in Web-Development (HTML, CSS, JavaScript).

— Knowledge of Python, Django or Google AppEngine is a big plus.

— Good understanding of Social Media, Mobile Web and Location Based Services.

— Speak and write English almost like a native speaker. German language skills are welcome but not necessary.

— Keen to experience Startup atmosphere and entrepreneurship.

— Competent and reliable teamworker with an open mind and creative touch.

What You get – A challenging opportunity to apply, deepen and extend your practical skills.

– Excellent training, instruction and supervision.

– A tutor to ensure regular feedback, advice and support concerning accommodation and administration.

– 150,00 € payment per month.

Be part of a young, multiprofessional and creative team and experience startup atmosphere in the center of a very exciting city.

Please send your application – letter of application and CV – by Email to info-at-sommercial.com. For further information see www.sommercial.com or call 0176 78 50 19 65.

This internship complies with the Erasmus internship criteria. Sommercial Networks guarantees support in the Erasmus application process.