Do something. Be important.

What is business hive?

Business Hive is an annual international business case competition organized by Management Group and taking place at the Faculty of Economics in Ljubljana. It sees students cooperate on solving real life business problems and challenges which are provided by known local and international companies and organizations. It spans over 5 days with workshops, business case solving and final presentations. During this time participants have the opportunity to learn about business practices from industry leaders and showcase their capabilities to company representatives. Additionally they have a chance to meet each other during social activities. All participants receive reference letters from respective companies and Management Group while winners also receive cash prizes.

Participating in Business Hive is beneficial for both, the participants and companies. Participants get real international business experience as they are thrown into real life situation where they have to cooperate with people that they do not know, and established businesses. Not only is it a unique life experience that helps in finding a career, it is also an opportunity to meet future employers. Companies get crowd-sourced solutions for their business challenges, from students, that are full of ideas. It is also an opportunity to find young and perspective future employees.

About Management Group

Management Group is an independent and unprofitable student group, that has been working at the Faculty of Economics in Ljubljana since 1994. For more than 20 years, the association has gathered students from different fields, that want to compliment their theoretical knowledge by gaining practical insights through organizing and directing projects, workshops and events for fellow students and young people.

Working hard, learning and having fun are essential aspects of every successful career. Work hard on the business case, learn from industry leaders during the workshops and have fun socializing and networking.

A team of company representatives can be a tough crowd. But Business Hive offers you the best chance to prepare for similar challenges in your career. And don't forget the same crowd might just be your future employer or partner.

Plenty of snacks, refreshments and networking opportunities are always available during the event. Management Group team ensures you are ready to solve the business cases.

"Business hive is a lifetime experience. It is not just about the competition and recommendations. It is about developing your social network and working skills. That is what counts in the business world."
