

Demola: Building The World's Strongest Innovation Ecosystem

We believe that groundbreaking innovation is created only when people with passion and talent are interconnected across nations, cultures, and fields of expertise.

It means that innovation with true impact cannot be created in isolated and disconnected units. That is why we need a stronger ecosystem instead of bigger silos.

In a strong ecosystem, innovation is based on a fusion of ideas, skills, and perspectives. It requires novel ways to collaborate in an international network that brings together people and organizations from various fields.

We at Demola are building such an ecosystem by promoting and developing efficient co-creation methods, driving a cultural change towards open innovation, and enhancing innovation competences both on individual and organizational levels.
